

The background of the entire image is a detailed landscape painting. It features a calm body of water in the middle ground, reflecting the sky and the surrounding greenery. The foreground is filled with lush, vibrant green bushes and trees, some with yellow highlights. In the background, a range of rugged, snow-capped mountains rises against a clear blue sky. The overall style is reminiscent of classic landscape art, with soft lighting and a peaceful atmosphere.

Joy of Painting

A MUSICAL

DIRECTOR'S NOTE

I started writing this show in 2018. I first directed a production of it as my Honors Theatre project at Wake Forest University in Spring of 2019. When my producer, Natalie Cordone, suggested pitching my show to NCWU, I knew I wanted to refine the script. It went from a cast of 6 to a cast of 2. All of the scenes and songs are new or heavily reworked. Through the rehearsal process, the show has undergone even more iterations, but it has always maintained its heart: to showcase and celebrate Bob Ross' calm presence, his encouraging life lessons, and the joy that he instilled in us.

I think the most important lesson that Bob taught is that "everybody needs a friend." We need connection — whether it's through art, music, or a friendly voice reminding us that we're all capable of creating something beautiful. Our show celebrates and invites this connection.

Thank you to my family who have always supported me and my art. To our cast, crew, and audience — thank you for being part of this story. I hope it leaves you with a little more joy, a little more peace, and maybe even the courage to pick up a brush and make some happy little trees of your own.
